FIVE CENTS

Senate Group Defeats FEPC Measure

Public To Take Part In Sham Nuclear Attack Today

THE MONROE COUNTY Board of School Directors has gone on record as approving a single joint district for school purposes in the mountain areas.

In so doing, the county board dropped its five-year opposition to the single administrative unit proposed and persistently recommended by State officials.

At the same time, six districts in the so-called "mountain" area have expressed their preference for a single administrative unit also. Districts expressing the desire for one unit are: Barrett, Coolbaugh, Tobyhanna, Tunkhannock, Paradise and Mount Pocono.

Three Not Yet Reported

Still to be heard from are the remaining three districts which will make up the single unit if and when it becomes a reality; Pocono and Jackson Township in Monroe County and Buck Township in Luzerne.

The recent move by the county school board represented the first genuine reshuffling of the "county plan" for educational units in several years.

The "county plan" is an outline, agreed upon mutually by county and State authorities for the most part, which lays down a unit-by-unit blueprint for larger school districts.

Actually, the plan is a part of the general movement toward centralization in school administration. This movement has been the guiding force behind Department of Public Instruction decisions and policies for more than two decades.

Two In Existence

The fruits of the policy have recently been ripening in Monroe County, however.

Two larger, State and county-approved units are now in existence—or will go into existence shortly—in Monroe. One of these is the East Stroudsburg Area Jointure made up of East Stroudsburg, Middle Smithfield, Price, Porter and Lehman Townships (the last two named are in Pike County).

The second is the Stroud Union School District consisting of Stroud Township, Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap boroughs. The union district goes into effect legally on Tuesday, July 5 of this year.

One previous effort at formation of a jointure faltered last year. This was the Pleasant Valley Joint School District in Monroe County's West End area. Districts combined in that jointure were Ross, Polk, Hamilton, Chestnut Hill and Eldred Townships.

Two Secondary Centers

Under provisions of the old county plan, the local county board had recommended two administrative school units in the mountain areas. State officials insisted, almost from the beginning, that the nine districts should be placed under one administrative system.

County board objections to the single unit were centered primarily around the belief that transportation difficulties would be prohibitive during bad weather.

During the past 12 months, however, suggestions have become more and more frequent that even though the administration might be handled in one unit, there would be a possibility for two secondary school centers in the nine-district region.

Elementary centers would remain basically the same under jointure. A copy of the county board resolution adopting the recommended single administrative unit has been mailed to the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg by John C. Litt, county superintendent of schools.

Civil Service Pay Increase Recommended

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The House Civil Service Committee today recommended a flat 7½ per cent pay increase for a million federal Civil Service employees.

Efforts to extend the raise to 8 per cent, stymied in committee, were promised when the pay measure reaches the House floor.

The Senate already has approved a 10 per cent boost for the Civil Service workers. That body also had voted a 10 per cent raise for the half-million postal employees, but the figure was trimmed to an average of 8 per cent in a compromise with the House.

Would Accept 7½

President Eisenhower, after vetoing an 8.6 per cent bill, signed the compromise postal pay legislation last week.

The President had asked only 5 per cent for the Civil Service employees. Some Congress members have said that after the pulling and hauling over an agreeable amount for post office personnel he would accept as much as 7 per cent for the others.

Whereas the Post Office measure allowed for an across-the-board raise of 6 per cent—the balance going for various adjustments in the scale—the Civil Service bill would provide a flat 7½ per cent all along the line.

READY FOR ALERT—Capt. William A. Bechtel, commander of local CAP unit, is seated in Air Force plane he will pilot during the nation-wide Air Raid Alert this afternoon starting at 2:05 p. m. to air-check on compliance in the county. Radio CD men will be out in varied portions of the county doing a ground check. Extra telephones have been installed in enlarged Civil Defense headquarters to receive the full reports on compliance with alert regulations.

Adenauer May Accept Russian Invitation On Prepared Basis

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said tonight he probably would accept Russia's invitation to visit Moscow but that such a trip "must be thoroughly prepared" in advance.

Adenauer disclosed his attitude toward the Russian bid at a giant news conference reception given in his honor by news correspondents after he ended talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

Earlier he and Eisenhower issued a joint declaration that only by collective security arrangements can Germany assure her independence. They pointedly rejected any Russian attempt to get Germany to accept a neutral role in exchange for unification of the country.

Preparations Take Time

The German leader indicated his trip to Moscow might have to wait until late summer, pointing out that thorough preparations "require time."

In addressing some 700 newspaper, radio and television reporters and guests, Adenauer said a neutral role for Germany would permit Moscow "to extend her power over all of Western Europe."

Answering questions afterward, Adenauer said emphatically Germany would never give up membership in the North Atlantic pact as the price for Russia's agreement to unite Eastern and Western zones.

Arms Danger Over

Adenauer assured his audience the danger of German militarism is over. Never again, he said, will German militarists hold sway over civilian authority or embark on aggressive moves.

He held up the seven-nation Western European Union as "a model" for a possible wider security system which might embrace Russia and its Eastern European satellites. He said the arms limitation features of the Western European arrangement are the "basic points" in any such pact with the Soviet Union.

Adenauer, talking of the Big Four conference scheduled July 18 in Geneva, said he did not expect it would produce any East-West disarmament agreement.

Senators Foresee Ike Vs. Adlai

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Newsweek magazine says today an overwhelming majority of U. S. senators think President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson will again be presidential rivals in 1956.

Polling the Senate, the magazine found 73 members—39 Republicans and 34 Democrats—who think Eisenhower will run for reelection. Five Democrats and three Republicans think he won't.

Seventy-eight senators tagged Stevenson as the Democratic candidate. They were evenly divided, 39 Republicans and 39 Democrats. Four Republicans and two Democrats didn't think Stevenson would be the candidate.

Would Accept 7½

President Eisenhower, after vetoing an 8.6 per cent bill, signed the compromise postal pay legislation last week.

The President had asked only 5 per cent for the Civil Service employees. Some Congress members have said that after the pulling and hauling over an agreeable amount for post office personnel he would accept as much as 7 per cent for the others.

Whereas the Post Office measure allowed for an across-the-board raise of 6 per cent—the balance going for various adjustments in the scale—the Civil Service bill would provide a flat 7½ per cent all along the line.

Vaccine Safe As Possible, Says Scheele

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) demanded a government statement today on the safety of the Salk polio vaccine and was told "it is a potent material as safe as we know how to make it."

He asked his question at a stormy session of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, which he heads. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to make political capital by criticizing the Eisenhower administration's handling of the vaccination program.

Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) denounced "Democratic politicians all over this land" who, he said, have been criticizing the program "in a shabby way."

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele, chief of the U. S. Public Health Service, eventually provided the replies.

He told the committee it is erroneously assumed the vaccine is 100 per cent safe, but that under and testing standards "it is a potent material as safe as we know how to make it." By potent, Scheele meant effective in preventing infantile paralysis.

First Peaches Sell At Record $37.50 A Bushel

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14 (AP)—Residents of this area with a taste for peaches are going to find it an expensive one.

The Federal-State Market News Service today reported first peach crops from California selling for $37.50 a bushel.

The usual price for peaches, the service reported, is $2.50 to $4.50 a bushel for first crops from Georgia and the Carolinas.

The service explained the increase was due to freezing weather which wiped out most peach crops except those in California.

Louisville produce dealer Julius Vetter said the $37.50 price was the highest in his memory.

Menon 'Not Discouraged' After Conferences With Eisenhower, Dulles On Easing Tensions

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—States might speed the release of 11 U. S. airmen imprisoned in Communist China.

He told newsmen the talk with Dulles dealt with the "situation in the area of Formosa with respect to the difficulties which now exist between the United States and China."

Menon presumably gave Eisenhower an idea of what conciliatory gesture toward Red China he has in mind, but no announcement was made concerning it.

Turns Aside Questions White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said Menon would see the President or secretary of state again before leaving the country early next month.

Smiling and affable, the wavy-haired Indian turned aside all questions on the substance of his 45-minute talk with the President.

Dulles and Indian Ambassador G. L. Mehta also sat in on the meeting.

But apart from the conference, he repeated his earlier view that the release of four U. S. fliers by Communist China had "opened the door" for the possible freeing of 11 other airmen imprisoned by Peking.

Menon indicated strongly before his White House call that both the United States and Communist China can each make "some contribution" toward relaxing tensions.

Will Do Right "You are concerned about your nationals there," he told reporters upon his arrival at national airport, "and they are concerned about their nationals here."

"I'm sure the United States will do what is right and proper," he added.

Instructions Given For C. D. Alert

TODAY'S CIVIL Defense alert in Monroe County will begin—for the public—at 2:05 this afternoon.

It will last until 2:15. A "Red" signal will sound the alarm at 2:05. An "all-clear" will be sounded when it's over.

During the 10 minutes of the alert, local C. D. officials will try to find out three things:

Three-Fold Purpose

One—How effective is the overall warning system used in the county;

Two—How fast and how well can the county mobilize its emergency operations;

Three—Is further practice needed, on a regular basis, in observation of alarms.

The "Red" alarm signal to be heard at 2:05 p. m. will consist of a three-minute "warbling" of sirens or a series of short blasts on horns or whistles or a combination of the two.

The public is required to follow these instructions:

Vehicles Must Stop

All public, private and commercial vehicles—except those engaged in Civil Defense activity—are required to pull off highways, streets and roads to the curb. Turn motors off; leave parking lights on. Occupants should get out of cars and take cover—otherwise crouch or lie down in the vehicle.

Streets are to be cleared. Pedestrians should take cover inside buildings. Do not stand in doorways or entrances.

The signal mobilizing Civil Defense personnel will sound at 12:05 p. m.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Major American cities face a massive, sham attack by "nuclear explosives" tomorrow and President Eisenhower will lead 15,000 key people in government in a hurried evacuation to secret hideouts.

In Washington and 55 other American cities, air raid sirens will begin shrieking the start of "Operation Alert 1955" at 12:05 p. m. EDT tomorrow.

Within three hours 40 minutes, large areas of the national capital and vital industrial cities in the Northeast, Midwest and Far West supposedly will be flaming, radio-active ruins from attacks by nuclear weapons with the power of 20,000 to a million tons of TNT.

Civil Defense Problems

Then, for 26 hours, Civil Defense authorities will take on the problems of casualties, housing, feeding, that can be expected in the first nine days of the real thing. And Eisenhower and other top officials from 31 government agencies will telescope into three days the task of solving all the complex problems likely to come up in the first month of hostilities.

Eisenhower will jump into a car and rush out of Washington as soon as the sirens start blaring. Secretary of Defense Wilson will get out by helicopter. Congress and the judiciary won't participate in this most ambitious and realistic test so far of how well Civil Defense and the federal government could operate in the event of atomic attack.

The President, cabinet members, military chiefs and the nucleus of essential people from the 31 federal agencies will hole up in relocation sites from 50 to 300 miles from Washington.

Peron Ousts Two Bishops, Orders Them To Appear At Inquiry Into Disorders

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 14 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron's government today ordered two Roman Catholic bishops discharged from their posts, and called them in for questioning before a federal judge investigating recent disorders.

A decree from Peron and his Cabinet accused the bishops of promoting the disorders involving supporters of the church and supporters of Peron.

A few hours later the bishops, accompanied by two other clergymen, were called to federal police headquarters to face the judge. Juan Carlos Almeida, chief of the political section of the police, was with them.

There was no sign that the prelates were under arrest.

Today's decree from President Peron and his Cabinet ended the bishops' authority under the government, which recognizes Catholicism as the state religion.

However, a high church source said Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello might continue them in their present positions although separated from official government titles.

The decree named the Rt. Rev. Manuel Tato, previsor vicar general, auxiliary bishop for Buenos Aires and canon of the Buenos Aires episcopate, and the Rt. Rev.

Ramon Pablo Novoa, canon deacon.

The decree cited an old Spanish law, dating back to Argentine colonial times, as authorizing the government to discharge church authorities held to have violated their duties in some way. Argentina, like Spain, participates in the selection of Catholic bishops.

Catholicism is the state religion in Argentina, but the Peron government is trying to end that status.

Both Msgr. Tato and Msgr. Novoa were charged in the 1,800-word decree with instigating Catholic observances May 6 and June 11 that the government had banned. These observances ended in street fights between Catholics and federal police and in counter-demonstrations by supporters of Peron in the seven-month-old state-church dispute.

6 Democrats, 2 Republicans Support Bill

HARRISBURG, June 14 (AP)—The Senate Education Committee, by a secret 9-8 vote, rejected a House-passed Fair Employment Practices bill today, apparently killing the issue for the 1955 session of the General Assembly.

Chairman Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill) said after the vote that nine members of the committee must ask him personally for reconsideration of the decision before he would call up the issue for a second vote.

History Repeats

The Senate committee action duplicated that in the 1951 and 1953 sessions when the Senate Judiciary Committee bottled up House-passed legislation to ban discrimination in jobs because of race, color or creed.

Democrats said their six members on the education committee lined up solidly to approve the bill. Wagner said that he and another Republican joined them in voting for the bill, leaving nine Republicans against it.

Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (Dauphin), an ex-officio member because of his post as president pro tempore of the Senate, did not vote.

Wagner said he could not say who was the other Republican senator who voted for the bill.

"I could sense it but I would have a hard time saying for sure," Wagner told a reporter.

Weight Bill Amended

The Senate Highways Committee amended and approved a House-passed bill increasing weight limits of commonly used trucks from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds. The action placed the bill in position for a possible Senate vote next week.

A major amendment would give the state 75 per cent and local governments 25 per cent of fines for overloading. Under the House-passed bill the local government in which the arrest was made would receive the entire fine.

In another development, Gov. Leader signed into law a bill authorizing an extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from the Pittsburgh area to the West Virginia border.

On the tax front, House administration leaders fixed the week of June 27 for a showdown in that branch on Gov. Leader's classified income tax plan.

Predicted Earlier

There had been some indication previously the House tax writing committee might release the controversial bill this week or next for floor action.

W. Thacher Longstreth, Republican nominee for mayor of Philadelphia, who came here seeking support for the FEPC bill, said he was "extremely disappointed" by the committee's action in rejecting the measure.

The members of the 18-man committee, in addition to Wagner and Taylor, are:

Republicans—Sens. Edward J. Kessler, Lancaster; James S. Berger, Potter; Albert R. Pechan, Armstrong; G. Robert Watkins, Delaware; Robert B. Fleming, Allegheny; Murray Peel, Indiana; Edward B. Watson, Bucks; Frank Koprivier Jr., Allegheny; William Z. Scott, Carbon, and J. Irving Whalley, Somerset.

Democrats—Martin Silver, Philadelphia; Eustace H. Bane, Fayette; Jo Hays, Centre; Elmer J. Holland, Allegheny; Frank W. Ruth, Berks and Harry E. Seyler, York.

Legion Unit Raising Funds For Equipment

THE AMERICAN Legion Auxiliary of Monroe County announce the start of their annual campaign for funds. Mrs. Ruth Eppley, president of the East Stroudsburg Unit 345 said the monies derived this year will be used to purchase additional sick room equipment.

As a result of the previous campaigns sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary they have been able to purchase and maintain sick room and life-saving equipment.

That equipment has been available for temporary use, without charge to any resident. It has been in almost constant demand and has given service throughout the community. The Legion Auxiliary feels that the equipment it proposes to purchase this year is a much needed addition to that already available. Officers said.

Letters of Identification

As in past years, only accredited representatives bearing letter of introduction and identification from the Legion Auxiliary and signed by the president will call on residents to explain the plan in detail. Residents, when called on, should request to see the representative's letter of introduction. This to eliminate any misrepresentation by an unauthorized person. Donations are not to be solicited or accepted.

Mrs. Bertha Becker, publicity chairman of American Legion Auxiliary here, said yesterday the accredited representatives named by the organization are Russell Stevens, Harvey Heller, Mrs. Nelly Kelly, Andrew Mery and Edward Marchalek.

The auxiliary again announces that the present equipment, and that which they propose to purchase, is housed at the Legion Home when not in use. Any resident needing any of this equipment in their home should call Mrs. Charles Reid, 319-J, for full particulars.

Car Upsets After Hitting Embankment

SCIOTA—A 1950-model car, valued at about $500, was totally demolished on Route 209 near here yesterday morning when it hit a bank and overturned.

Stroudsburg State police said the accident occurred at about 2:30 a.m. Driver of the car was identified as Steve Bogden, 21, of Palmerton. Police said the car rolled off the highway and they were not notified of the wreck until some hours after it happened.

No one was injured, police said. Bogden told police he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming vehicle as he was driving around a curve going toward the Sciota intersection.

Radio Beam Leads Fishes Into Net

TOKYO, June 14 (AP)—A Japanese electronics professor has come up with an electrically baited fish net that has professional fishermen excited and amateur anglers worried.

It is based on the theory that fish will follow an underwater radio beam to its source.

Prof. Katsutoshi Ando of Ehime University School of Technology has fastened a small radio beam generator in the center of a huge, Y-shaped net.

Ando said its first tryout last week was a huge success. "We just dropped the net into the water and the fish swam into it in droves."

Firemen Complete Arrangements For Four-County Sessions

Parade Set For 2 P.M. On Saturday

ARCHIE S. RUNDLE, chairman, disclosed last night that arrangements have been completed for the 58th annual convention of the Four County Firemen's Association on Friday and the parade on Saturday.

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg are being put in brilliant holiday attire of flags and "Welcome Firemen" signs in honor of two-day event.

Chairman Rundle and co-chairman, Stroudsburg Fire Department members have worked for many weeks in preparation for accommodating the thousands of visitors and local residents.

The convention opens in the auditorium of the Stroudsburg High School Friday at 10 a. m. in charge of Fire Chief Millard A. Marsh, president of the association. Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris will give the address of welcome which will be responded to by John I. Correll, of Bangor.

Memorial Service

Routine matters will be taken up, followed by the memorial services honoring the 12 members who have died since the last convention at Jim Thorpe, Carbon County, in 1954. Rev. Robert Krauss, of Hellertown, chaplain of the organization, will be in charge.

Participating in the memorial program will be Rev. Harold G. Durkin, St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church; Rabbi William Flerviker, Temple Israel, and Rev. Roger C. Stinson, First Methodist Church, Stroudsburg. The mixed chorus of Stroudsburg High School will furnish the musical selections under the direction of Numa J. Snyder, director, and Miss Ruth Fetherman, accompanist.

The balance of the morning session of the convention will be devoted to nomination of officers and routine matters.

The afternoon session gets underway at 1:30 when reports of committees will be submitted. There will be an address by a guest speaker and final adjournment following induction of the new officers.

Banquet Friday Night

The annual banquet takes place in the auditorium of George N. Kemp Post, 346, American Legion, in East Stroudsburg at 6 p. m. Wilbur G. Warner, postmaster at Lehighton, will be the guest speaker. Presentation of officers and guests will take place and the night's program will be followed by a floor show. Frank S. LaBar will act as master of ceremonies.

The parade Saturday afternoon will start promptly at 2. There will be two blasts of the Stroudsburg fire alarm to signal the start.

There will be no parking of cars on Main St., Stroudsburg, from noon until after the parade has passed. The same condition will exist along the parade route in East Stroudsburg, it was announced. Local people are urged to leave their cars at home to increase parking space for visitors. This plan has worked out fine in towns where the parade has taken place, borough firemen pointed out last night.

Judging of fire apparatus will take place on Sarah St. in the vicinity of fire headquarters at 11 a. m. Various cash prizes will be awarded by the judges.

100 Marching Units

There will be in the neighborhood of 100 marching organizations in the line of march. Their representatives will report at fire headquarters where they will receive slips of instructions as to place of formation and the like. Boy Scouts will lead them to their point of formation.

Representatives of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, will lead the various divisions in the parade. The Stroudsburg High School band, John Pyle, director, will lead the parade. A US Marine detachment, of Scranton, will furnish the color guard at the head of the parade.

The reviewing stand will be in front of the former Montgomery-Ward store building on Main St. between Seventh and Eighth Sts.

The first division will form on Fifth St., Stroudsburg; second division on Sarah St., third on Fourth St. and the other five divisions on Second St.

Turn East On Main

The parade will leave Fifth St. and turn left on Main and will be followed by the other divisions in the order stated from their respective streets.

The parade will cross the state bridge over Brodheads Creek to East Stroudsburg, then move on Washington St., to S. Courtland, to Crystal, to Brown, to the state bridge and then west on Main St. Stroudsburg, to Stroudsburg playground where it will be dispersed.

The marchers will be treated to refreshments at the playgrounds. There will be a special section reserved for youths in the musical organizations which will include a large number of high school bands and drum corps.

There are only two kinds of Memorial Artists — Designers who plan the work, and Craftsmen who complete it. We do both.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS of the Monroe County YMCA held their first supper meeting in the new building last night. Final bills for construction were ordered paid and programs for the summer were announced. President Holt Wyckoff presided.

C. C. Chopp, director of youth activities, reported that 1,258 represented 15 club groups in meetings during the year to date, which marks the close of the season until Fall. The Mount Pocono group was included.

Chopp spoke of the invitation swim meet held last Saturday in the new pool which indicated some good swim teams in prospect. He also said 300 boys and girls enjoyed the four swim periods provided during dedication week.

There are 152 boys registered for the Day Camp of three weeks duration starting June 27, Chopp said. Plans also are under way for a summer club for girls five days a week.

Thanks Expressed

John R. Wilson, general secretary, praised all who had taken a part in the dedication week gatherings. He said approximately 68 boys and 36 girls had taken out memberships since the opening of the new building. Wyckoff commended the ladies who served meals for meetings in the new building.

Wilson recommended the formation of an endowment fund of $100,000 to insure future operations of the Y. The trustees were authorized to consider plans for the fund.

The general secretary also emphasized the importance of a permanent YMCA camp. The response to the Day Camp, he declared was evidence that such a movement would prove successful.

Announcement was made by Wilson that Champ Albert, who is secretary of a Y in India, would be here June 29 and 30 and he asked the board to meet him and get a real idea of Y world service.

Announcement was also made that the Cramer Lumber Co., East Stroudsburg, had donated the large platform installed for the new building dedicatory exercises for which the board expressed its appreciation.

Pledges Outstanding

Secretary Wilson reported receipts from pledges for the building fund were encouraging, although there is a considerable amount outstanding.

Rev. F. H. Blatt, chairman of the House Committee, said the preschool age Pocono Play School had applied for permission to use the floor under the old gymnasium for their activities. The committee was authorized to check up on expense of renovating the room, also financial arrangements with the preschool leaders.

Rev. Blatt also reported on the donation of paintings for the new building. The thanks of the board was extended Mrs. Arthur Rugh, chairman, and to the donors.

Three applicants for the position of director of girls' work at the Y had been interviewed, Thomas Kistler, chairman of the Personnel Committee reported. The board adopted the recommendation of the committee that Mrs. Joan Deffenbaugh, of Shawnee, be engaged on a one-year basis. She is a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and has had two years' teaching experience.

Bills Approved

The board directed payment of $146 to H. C. Archibald Co. for a sump pump; also $280.20 to Mat

Dutch Treat Selects List

OFFICERS of the Dutch Treat Club met last night at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Jayne Hoffman, Marshalls Creek, and selected a list of speakers and alternates for the 1955-56 season.

The names will be announced after they are cleared with the booking bureau and the dates for their appearances set.

"A diversified, talented choice of speakers, with no repeats from previous years," was the way George Graff, club president, described the selections.

Kie, electrician, for 10 minor items and changes in electrical work. The bills were approved by the architects. It was also voted to retain $500 from money due H. L. Cleveland, plumbing contractor, for work not yet completed.

Dr. J. F. Noonan, chairman of the Building Committee, said the complete cost of the new building would be between $537,000 and $540,000 as compared with the original estimate of $550,000, a considerable saving. Wyckoff commended the Building Committee for a big job well performed.

The Y board provided for insurance during the construction of the building, the contractors to refund to the board sums not utilized. Dr. Noonan commended the architects, Rinker and Kiefer, for the fine performance of their duties, which also was complimented by the National Board representative.

Final Payments

Dr. Noonan presented bills for final payment due the contractors, approved by the architects. Paul Edinger, general contractor, $38,690.48, less $1,153.51 for insurance. His total contract was $340,643.80; H. C. Archibald, heating, $6,157, less $164.58 insurance; total contract, $48,006; Mat Kime, electrical, $2,915.10, less $79.88 insurance, total contract, $24,828.20.

"... AND TO THE REPUBLIC FOR WHICH IT STANDS ..." Key figures in last night's observance of Flag Day, sponsored by the East Stroudsburg Elks lodge at Stroudsburg playground were Russell Imbt Jr., exalted ruler of the lodge and Jesse Flory, burgess of East Stroudsburg, the main speaker. Brief ceremonies were conducted following a Little League game on the grounds. A group of Boy Scouts from both boroughs held a retreat service following Flory's address. The ceremony was attended by a large crowd. Elks club members distributed free miniature flags and ice cream to children.

New "Dixon-Yates" Deal Involving AT&T Studied

Washington, June 15—Senators are excitedly claiming they have discovered a new and larger "Dixon-Yates" contract.

This one is for an estimated $2,000,000,000 with giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co., as compared to the $100,000,000 of the hotly beleaguered Southern electric utility contract.

Purpose of the new transaction is to provide the Air Force with a speedier and more extensive air-defense communications system for the U. S.

This "semi-automatic ground environment system" will be known as SAGE.

For this air-defense communications service the government will pay AT&T as much as $240,000,000 a year for ten years.

The Air Force has already signed two contracts in this matter. That was done on orders of the National Security Council, under a directive (No. 5408) issued last March.

Pentagon officials admitted, under senatorial grilling, that there is doubt concerning the Security Council's authority to promulgate such a directive; that neither the Comptroller General nor the Budget Bureau were consulted about it, and that the latter has refused to express an opinion on the validity of the Council's action and advised obtaining a formal statement about it from the Comptroller General.

Several months ago, Comptroller General Joseph Campbell vigorously assailed the Dixon-Yates power contract on a number of counts.

According to Senate critics of that controversial plan, there are striking similarities between it and the AT&T proposal. Foremost among them they cite the fact that both were ordered by the White House without public announcement and without consulting other agencies immediately involved, and that the government is largely financing both projects.

Note: The following is a screened summary of SAGE: "In accordance with National Security Council Directive 5408, as amended, the Department of the Air Force is implementing a program for the conversion of the manually operated air-defense system to a semi-automatic ground environment system, known as SAGE, for the purpose of improving the air defenses of the United States."

The SAGE system as presently planned will consist of eight sectors and 32 sub-sectors. It is anticipated that the cost of the commercial communications service required by SAGE will run as high as $240,000,000 annually. . . . The government will equal to the unauthorized portion of the unauthorized portion.

In response to a question by Senator Flanders, Garlock disclosed that the Air Force has already signed two contracts with AT&T without waiting for a report from the Comptroller General on the validity of such action.

"They commit the Air Force to a payment of approximately four to six million dollars a year starting in 1957," he added.

"The Budget Bureau advised the Air Force to submit the question of adequacy of authority to the General Accounting Office for decision, and if his decision is that there is lack of authority, to bring the matter up in connection with the 1957 budget (next year)."

"The Secretary of Defense received the directive from the National Security Council," replied Garlock, "and he passed it on to the Air Force. It was an order and we acted on it."

"Do you have authority to make these contracts?" continued Chavez. "Do you feel your authority is adequate to protect the national interests not only from the standpoint of security but financially? What does the Budget Bureau think about this?"

Garlock expressed confidence on both scores; also that the Budget Bureau approved. But later the Air Force official acknowledged he was in error on this. Garlock informed the Committee:

Conservation Education Laboratory

—by H. G. Heller

It has often been said the best time to impress Americans with the need for sound resource management is during the formative years. But until fairly recently the problem of putting across the overall conservation story was first one of instructing school teachers on the subject.

The Conservation Education Laboratory, open to both men and women teachers, was therefore established in the mid-forties as a summer course at The Pennsylvania State University.

The eventual effect of knowledge gained there and imparted to school children is appreciated by conservation agencies generally. The State Game Commission realizes the value of the course, not only because of wildlife education gained but because the management of soil, water and timber largely determines game and fur populations.

The tenth annual Laboratory will be conducted at The University this summer. Professor T. R. Porter of the staff there has announced these dates for the two classes: July 5 to 23 and July 25 to August 13. Three units of credit are given persons completing the study course.

Through this instruction the teacher-students will: 1. Obtain information from first-hand observation of natural resources. 2. Understand the interrelationships between natural resources and between man and resources. 3. Develop a philosophy toward resource use that will carry over into everyday living. 4. Become familiar with the efforts made by various agencies toward conserving natural resources. 5. Study efficient and practical methods of correlating conservation concepts into classroom teaching at various levels of pupil ability. 6. Become familiar with instruction aids useful in conservation teaching. 7. Explore ways and means of influencing community action in conservation education programs.

Total cost of the 1955 course is $80.70. This includes the general fee, that for health service and the cost of housing and meals. The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs has provided 10 teacher scholarships of $50 each for this summer's course.

Women's clubs, individual sportsmen's clubs and other organizations also interested in natural resource education have defrayed the expenses of many teachers taking the course in past years. Such offers are again being made this year.

My New York

New York—Things one New Yorker thinks about. The glum ones who regularly report that Broadway is dead and the New York stage only a glimmer of what it once was, should pay close attention to the cast of the new, forthcoming movie, "The Big Knife." It has 11 starred or featured actors—and of them all, only Ida Lupino was not trained on the Broadway boards.

The others include Wendell Corey (who even goes away back to the Federal Theater project), Jack Palance, Shelley Winters (who was born in Brooklyn and made her debut as a singing actress in Chester Erskine's "Conquest in April"), Rod Steiger (Brando's brother in "On the Waterfront") and an alumnus of Elia Kazan's Actors' Workshop, Everett Sloane, Wesley Addy, Rika Chase and Jean Hagen.

One reason they made the production a delight for director Robert Aldrich was that they rehearsed for 11 days and then were able to plunge immediately into shooting of the movie and bite off great chunks of dialogue at a time. . . . a pleasant relief from the Hollywood doll who says "Hello, you" as the cameras roll and then holds things up for an hour while she tries to memorize her next sentence.

Incidentally, the talented and imitable Miss Winters has come a long way since she broke in as a model in a New York department store. On that occasion, she wore high heels and a full-length skirt for the first time—and fell flat on her face.

Along with the news that New York entrepreneurs will be able to advertise shows as burlesque, although there will be no strip-teasing (Mayor LaGuardia technically ended all that years ago), comes word of a violent local feud between Rose La Rose and Neila Ates, who dances, if that is the word, in the musical hit "Fanny."

Miss La Rose has loftily said that Miss Ates' writings are the same ones she employed in burlesque in New York a couple of seasons ago. Miss Ates—remember her whirlwind romance with Shepard King—says no. "If you count," Neila states, "you see that I only twirl my tummy 60 times a minute in 'Fanny.' In burlesque, I did at least 100."

"What's more, in the show I got only two colds a month. In burlesque, I got one every two weeks. (Ed note—say that again slowly, will you?) If Miss La Rose thinks the dance I've been doing is the same as I did in Newark, she's in for a surprise. I can show her a dance that will make her act look like a waltz at a college reunion."

Well—they tell me that's what she says, anyway.

My idea of brave people are those who sponsor "The Name's the Same," the television show with Bob and Ray. These great gentlemen, as their fans know, are given to delivering wild commercials for products that don't exist, such as the Little Giant burglar and jimmy kit. They began slowly on the TV program, but are gradually working into more of this whimsy, their recent pitches having included a blood-bank charity appeal—that turned out to be for starving vampire bats. With talented comic Lee Goodman doing the actual commercials on "Name," the question would seem to arise—just who "does" sponsor the darned thing, anyway?

can be upset by misinformation on the number of homeowners who keep CATS."

"Can it be done through production economies?" we asked. "I already have decided to save some labor by eliminating one hole per trap. I had thought of making the mousetrap smaller, but what happens if I get a year when mice are BIGGER?"

"Do your mousetrap workers want longer vacations, bigger pensions, greater sick benefits and all that?"

"The leader of Mousetrap Makers Union, No. 7,698, tells me that a mousetrap maker needs more time to relax than most workers on account of hollitis, a disease brought on by long concentration on little round holes in red-painted wood. He also says a mousetrap worker deserves a bigger pension than average for what he has done for the cheese industry, and that the cheese people should contribute."

Today I spend most of my time discussing with my mousetrap makers the problem of how to make better security programs. There is one thing that prevents me from conceding the guaranteed annual wage."

"What's your top problem?" we asked.

"The so-called guaranteed wage," he said. "I am being asked for it and my argument that I make mousetraps and not automo-

Meadow Music One Passage Of Nature's Great Symphony Serving As Guide To Man

There are occasions when one wishes Mr. Webster had let himself go a wiffle more in his helpful book of words listed in alphabetical sequence. Adjectives and adverbs can admittedly be overdone.

But his definition of a meadow as "Grassland, especially a field on which grass is grown for hay; often a tract of low or level grassland" seems inadequate on a sun-blessed, white-cloud, blue-sky day when the countryside is relaxing in the benediction of June.

Go into a peaceful meadow and sit for a time among the blossoming grasses. It takes a few minutes for human ears to become attuned to Earth's quiet melodies.

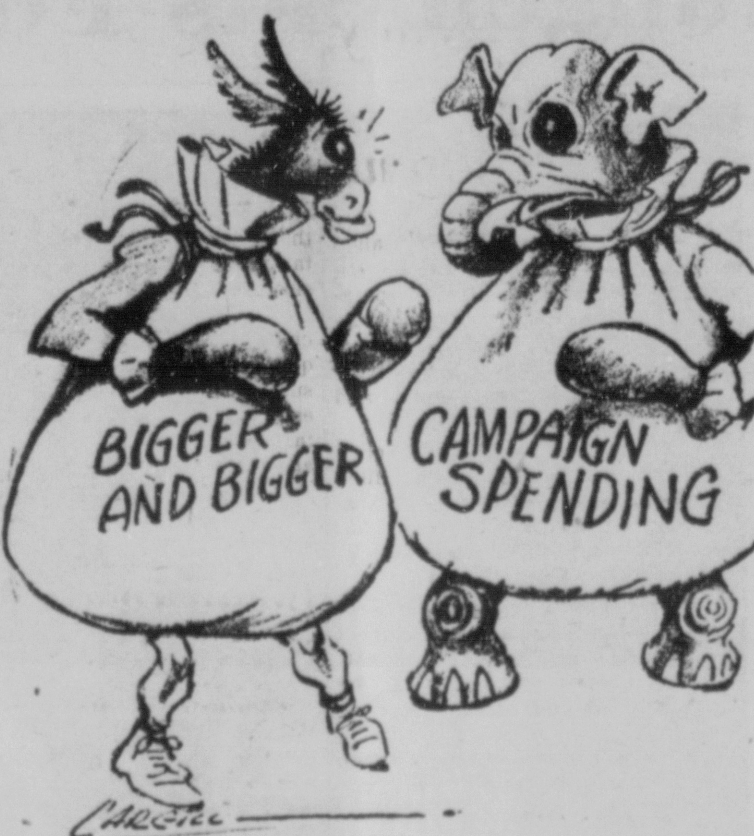

At first you will hear the penetrating whistles of the red-winged black-birds, the pleasant calls of the bobwhites and the familiar melody of a song sparrow. Your eyes will follow the aerial circus of the barn swallows as they swoop and circle, climb and dive. A hawk may slowly float in wide circles overhead and a frog go ker-plunk in the nearby creek.

But in a few minutes you will begin to hear the sweet, subdued meadow music of the small forms of life. There are some 800,000 known species of insects on our planet, and a score of them are likely within yards of you.

Look down among the grasses to the small flowering plants; watch the plump gold and black bumblebees and listen as they drone leisurely on their search for nectar and pollen. Golden-banded honey bees are out in force on a warm sunny day; grasshoppers take off from hidden landing fields and circle in the sunlight with a softly-burred, whirring sound.

As ears become attuned to the soft melody of meadow music, one realizes that this is the great theme of Nature's symphony. For this is primal melody; this is the music of which life itself is fashioned.

The cycling seasons follow one another in ordered fashion; each season of year has its profound and rhythmic harmony. Meadow music is one passage of the great annual symphony, and in it a man can find meaning for the path his footsteps follow.

Public Speakers Talk Selves Out Of Business

There's one thing about being a poor—or, as they say, a "sincere" public speaker. It doesn't take long to talk yourself out of business. Then you can relax and eat your carrots and peas in peace.

You could, that is, if you didn't keep thinking what a wow you might have been if only you could have done the speech the way you had visualized doing it—or the way you could do it now if you had it to do over again.

What a delight it would be to attend dinners if you could hear every after-dinner speech the way the fellow meant to give it, or the way he thinks he could have given it if something hadn't fouled him up.

Some speakers give them that way—once in a blue moon. And I envy them.

It must be wonderful to stand up there in front of all those people whose faces dare you to stand there cool as a stadium hotdog and be reminded of those clever stories that fit into the context so nicely and have everybody rolling in the aisles.

I don't recall ever being reminded of a funny story while standing in front of an audience. I figure I do well if I can remember the ones I spent the previous three days beating the bushes for.

And even when I do I have to twist myself all out of shape trying to establish some far-fetched connection between the joke and the occasion, the subject or the audience at hand.

I marvel at these smooth operators who seem to pluck from the air on the spur of the moment funny anecdotes that illustrate their points as if they were made to order. I know that isn't the way they actually do it. They fuss and fume as much as anybody, searching for those stories and toiling them down to fit.

But that doesn't explain anything. I have devoted time to searching for pat anecdotes, too. Even made a list of some likely ones once. There was the one about the woman whose deathbed request was that the funeral procession be routed past the home of the acquaintance who always insisted there was nothing the matter with her. It was all in her head.

There was the one about the farmer who, when the salesman told him the scientifically balanced feed would give his hogs all the nourishment they needed in half the time, refused to buy, explaining: "My hogs ain't so damned busy."

There were quite a few others. But I might live to be a hundred without ever finding myself in a situation that would remind me of one of them.

Still, maybe it's best for a carrot-and-pea man to be reminded to stick to his carrots and peas.

A successful banker, back on his college campus for a class reunion, visited his old economics prof, and picked up the current semester's final exam. "Holy smoke!" he exclaimed, "these are precisely the questions you asked our class fifteen years ago. If you always ask the same questions, don't you know the students will get wise, and pass them on from class to class?"

"Sure," answered the prof blandly, "but in economics, you see, we're constantly changing the answers."

Bob Hope swears there's a sign in the club house of one Scottish golf club that reads: "Caution to members: No golf ball can be considered lost until it stops rolling."

U. S. Agreement With Republic Of China, May Keep Russia Off Red Chinese Issue

At the Four Power Conference

the Conference at the Summit, Sir Winston Churchill would call it one of the principal subjects for discussion will be the recognition of Red China. The President will be bound, in a measure, by H. J. Resolution 159, passed by the Senate and the House of Representatives and now law of the land—Public Law 4—8th Congress—approved by President Eisenhower on January 29, 1955 at 8:42 A.M.

This resolution stipulates: "That the President of the United States be and he hereby is authorized to employ the Armed Forces of the United States as he deems necessary for the specific purpose of securing and protecting Formosa and the Pescadores against armed attack, this authority to include the securing and protection of such related positions and territories of that area now in friendly hands and the taking of such other measures as he judges to be required or appropriate in assuring the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores."

"This resolution shall expire when the President shall determine that the peace and security of the area is reasonably assured by international conditions created by action of the United Nations or otherwise, and shall so report to the Congress."

The resolution is a tongue twister. It authorizes the President to do what he already has the power to do and which he and President Truman did without a joint resolution, namely, to station the Seventh Fleet in Formosan waters to protect that government; to finance and supply that government; and to train its troops for defensive action against Communist China.

No special resolution was necessary on January 29, but the President wanted it and so Congress gave it to him. The Tachen Islands incident had occurred and a four-paragraph memorandum was sent to Chiang Kai-shek in which it was stated that if he would evacuate the Tachen Islands, the United States would defend Quemoy and Matsu. So Chiang has an undervoting which he can make public when he wants to, embarrassing an Administration which changes its mind with swift and repetitive irregularity.

Meanwhile, India more than any other country raises the question of the recognition of Red China and sends Krishna Menon from capital to capital to keep this particular pot boiling. Perhaps we shall discover some day that India and Red China have some kind of secret deal in which Red China will give India some quid pro quo. Otherwise the persistent activities of Krishna Menon and his master, Nehru, do not make sense at this time when this issue ought not to be pressing.

That the Russians should be insistent upon the recognition of Red China is understandable, because that is a sine qua non of the Soviet Universal State. Tito, who is still a Communist, cannot reject the recognition of a Communist country.

The Tachen Islands incident had occurred and a four-paragraph memorandum was sent to Chiang Kai-shek in which it was stated that if he would evacuate the Tachen Islands, the United States would defend Quemoy and Matsu. So Chiang has an undervoting which he can make public when he wants to, embarrassing an Administration which changes its mind with swift and repetitive irregularity.

Meanwhile, India more than any other country raises the question of the recognition of Red China and sends Krishna Menon from capital to capital to keep this particular pot boiling. Perhaps we shall discover some day that India and Red China have some kind of secret deal in which Red China will give India some quid pro quo. Otherwise the persistent activities of Krishna Menon and his master, Nehru, do not make sense at this time when this issue ought not to be pressing.

That the Russians should be insistent upon the recognition of Red China is understandable, because that is a sine qua non of the Soviet Universal State. Tito, who is still a Communist, cannot reject the recognition of a Communist country.

This is a question for the power to do and which he and President Truman did without a joint resolution, namely, to station the Seventh Fleet in Formosan waters to protect that government; to finance and supply that government; and to train its troops for defensive action against Communist China.

Employers Alerted To Minor Laws

PHILADELPHIA—The U. S. Department of Labor yesterday reminded employers, who are planning to hire many of Pennsylvania's new crop of 101,000 high school graduates, to comply with the child labor laws if their young employees are subject to the Federal Wage and Hour Act.

Also leaving their classrooms for the summer will be thousands of high school vacationing teenagers looking for summertime jobs in order to earn extra spending money before school reopens in the fall.

Dr. Carl D. Mornebeck, speaking at the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg as chief of child accounting and research said, "School officials in Pennsylvania have received instructions relative to cooperating in the administration of the child labor provisions of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, because we believe these provisions are established for the protection of our youth." "Where parents are willing," Dr. Mornebeck added, "Teenage minors are encouraged by school authorities to secure summer employment within the provisions of the law. It is our opinion that appropriate gainful employment develops a sense of responsibility and confidence; while an unoccupied minor would have more opportunities to become involved in detrimental activities."

Legal Jobs

The young wage earners, according to William Hargadine Jr., regional director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, should become familiar with the kind of jobs in which they may legally work under the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act—the two Federal labor laws which are administered by the U. S. Department of Labor. The child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act apply to any employer who hires any minor in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce, and to any producer, manufacturer or dealer who ships or delivers goods for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce.

"Employers are reminded that the Fair Labor Standards Act sets a basic minimum age of 16 years for general employment as well as an 18 year maximum for occupations declared hazardous by U. S. Secretary of Labor," Mr. Hargadine said. Mr. Hargadine pointed out that the Act bans employment of children under 16 years old in (1) manufacturing and processing occupations (2) public messenger service and (3) in work places where goods are manufactured or processed.

The Fair Labor Standards Act requires payment of at least 75 cents an hour and time and one-half after 40 hours in any one week to all employees engaged in interstate commerce or producing goods for commerce. The Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act requires at least the minimum scale set in the contract, and overtime pay at time and one-half after eight hours a day or after 40 hours a week, whichever is greater, without regard to age or sex of the worker.

Leader Relies On Federal Highway Aid

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (AP)—Gov. George Leader suggested that congressional approval of a major federal highways construction program might provide the answer to some of Pennsylvania's road problems.

The governor's viewpoint was disclosed in a letter from him made public today by the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia. Some time ago, the chamber wrote the governor that increasing the borrowing capacity of the State Highway and Bridge Authority would provide funds for completing the Schuylkill Expressway and other major roads.

In his reply, Leader said:

Questions Suggestion
"I am not sure, at the moment, that your suggestion to increase State Highway and Bridge Authority is the most acceptable solution. It occurs to me that Pennsylvania should watch the development of the federal highway program and encourage the passage of a bill undertaking a major construction and modernizing program."

"There are now before the House Public Works Committee bills which provide such a program. If the funds included therein are made available, then, together with the additional funds requested by me which the General Assembly may provide, it will be possible to initiate and carry on a greatly expanded program."

Miss Lizbeth Radel

Lizbeth Radel To Compete For 'Miss Pocono' Title

MISS LIZBETH RADEL, 21-year-old student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will compete for the Miss Pocono Mountains title at the pageant to be held Friday, June 24 at 9 p. m., at Skyline Inn, Mount Pocono.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Radel, of Hegins. She is eligible to compete by reason of her enrollment at the local college.

Miss Radel is a student of the Karen Kemple Roth School of Dancing in Stroudsburg. She will appear in a creative dance as part of the entertainment when the contestants vie for the Miss Pocono title.

Lizbeth is majoring at college in health education. She is also a piano student and expects to continue her studies with a stage career as her goal.

Miss Pennsylvania Here

The pageant will be highlighted with the appearance of Miss Pennsylvania, Miss Barbara Sue Nager of Philadelphia, who was runner-up in the Miss America pageant last September.

The girl selected to represent the Pocono Mountains in the state finals July 8 and 9 at West Chester will be crowned by Miss Nager at the coronation ball to be held at Skyline Inn from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. The winner of the Miss Pennsylvania crown will go on to compete in the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City.

The Pocono Mountains magazine is sponsoring the local pageant, in cooperation with the inn.

WINNIPEG, June 14 (AP)—It took Alf Knoll almost a year before his Father's Day present paid off. But when it did it got him a 33-pound northern pike, biggest caught in Manitoba this year and 13 pounds under the world record. Knoll's wife gave him a fancy fishing plug last Father's Day.

Hoover Agency Hits Waste In Government

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Hoover Commission has called on President Eisenhower to enforce reforms in "wasteful" property management practices of the government which, it said, load costs on the taxpayer and divert revenue from the states and cities.

The commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover filed the 13th report in its reorganization series with Congress, but aimed many of its recommendations at the White House.

Orders issued by the General Services Administration to correct mismanagement and needless purchases of land and buildings, the commission said, frequently are ignored by the 27 property-holding agencies "and no effort is made to enforce compliance."

The report asked the President and Congress to centralize in GSA, the government's housekeeping agency, authority for supervising enormous federal realty holdings. If agencies still disobey GSA rulings, it said, GSA should request the President "to direct them to comply."

Regulations Inadequate

Under inadequate regulation, the commission reported, the government has acquired about one-fourth the total acreage of the nation. It added the government now owns office buildings and other structures equivalent in space to 1,250 Empire State buildings, and industrial plants with an original cost as great as the nation's entire iron and steel industry.

But there exists no complete, up-to-date inventory of these vast holdings, the report went on. It said the result is that one agency often buys new space while another holds idle space. Noting that each federal acquisition removes the ground or buildings from local tax rolls, the 12-member commission went on:

"The cost to the taxpayer is increased not only by wasteful acquisition and unrealized disposal of surplus property, but as the federal government is exempt from taxation, the whole status of local and state taxation is injured."

"Under the present processes, this situation is steadily becoming worse."

House Approves Banking Measure

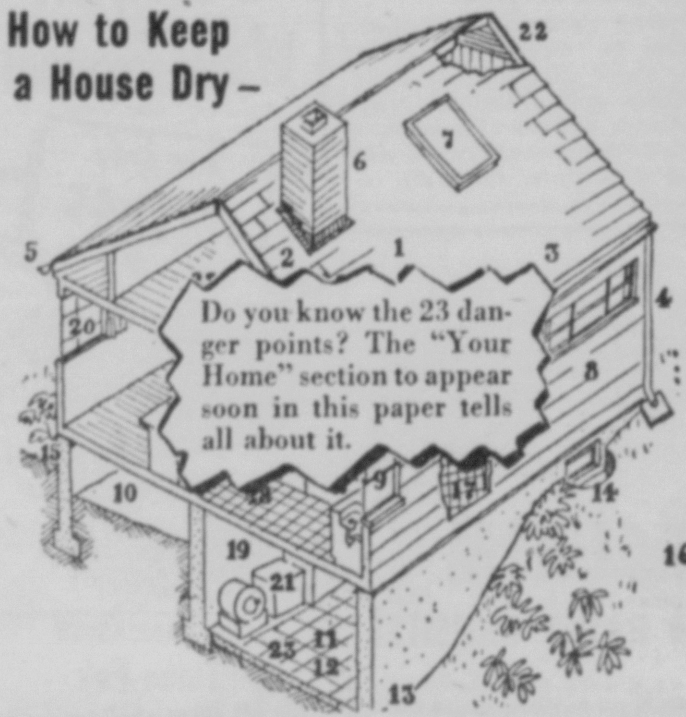

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The House voted today for federal regulation on bank holding companies and to require them to divorce their banking business from unrelated business.

Since the railroads stepped up substitution of diesel for coal-fired locomotives, some plants making cinder building blocks have had trouble getting enough raw material.

Atomic Plants Soon To Heat, Cool Houses

By David G. Barendse
AP Real Estate Editor

IS THERE a place in your home for a little invisible, splittable atom? There'd better be!

Atomic heating plants with summer cooling systems are just around the corner. They'll cost you just $50 a year to operate, says an expert.

And you'll build your house with plastic, subjected to atomic radiation to make it stronger than steel. Will this replace lumber?

As for that pesky bomb, which wipes out cities when it splits the infinitesimal atom, a Yale University expert says basement bomb shelters will soon become as standard in the design of our houses as bathrooms and kitchens.

Parts Now Available

All we are waiting for when it comes to economical home heating and cooling is a new discovery of a large source of fissionable material, says Robert E. Ferry, general manager of the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers. So get out your Geiger counters and go hunting.

Ferry was speaking at the recent 40th anniversary meeting of his industry at Asbeseon, N. J. He said that all of the parts needed for an atomic home heating and cooling plant are now available on the market, except for the small atomic reactor to replace fuel.

This missing unit, hermetically sealed in lead and about twice the size of an automobile battery, should cost about $300, according to Ferry. It would be good for six years and then would be replaced. Net cost: $50 per year; no chimney; no ashes; no waste energy.

The rest of the workings are so well known that you could install such a plant in a house for about $1,500, says Ferry.

Plastic Strong

The potential strength of plastic has been demonstrated with a new hammer now in the market. It has a brilliant red handle made of plastic reinforced with fiber glass. This handle is stronger than steel, yet it has the resilience and shock absorbing quality of hickory.

With this strength attained by blending plastic and fiber glass, the possibilities of the new alchemy of game radiation are fabulous.

Architectural Forum recently explored the prospects of such radiant-treated plastic for the benefit of designers and engineers. It concluded that today's bulky posts and beams, serving as ribs of a building, will be reduced to a mere fold or seam in the skin of the wall.

Douglas Haskell, editor, summed up: "Tomorrow's structure may be typically all skin. Its skin may become its shell and its interior columns. Even its windows may be simply transparent patches of its skin."

Probably a skin game in which you, for a change, will win.

Basement Protection

In the meantime, the threat of that atomic bomb and its gargantuan relative, "It," hangs over our houses. Lincoln H. Lippincott, director of safety for Yale University, says "the Yucca Flat tests have emphasized the protection given by basements against atomic bomb blasts and radiation."

Lippincott told a Boston meeting of the New England Building Officials Conference that a base-

Clean Furnace In Springtime

SPRING IS the time for furnace cleaning as well as house cleaning, says the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association. As soon as the fire goes out for good, the prudent householder will go over his entire heating system, from chimney-top to ash-pan floor, and see to it that everything is clean and dry; all soot and ashes scrubbed down and swept out, and every clinker and cinder removed.

It isn't done now, you may be in for unpleasant surprises next fall when it is time to start the fire again. Warm air heating plants, naturally, do not need as much care as other types of heating plants; but no type of furnace is immune from damage if not properly cared for. Ashes in particular, if not thoroughly removed, may absorb moisture and corrode grate bars and fire-pot walls.

ment bomb shelter of proper design should have an added outside exit for rescue.

Well, if the atom can rescue us from the cost of building chimneys and from the biggest part of our annual fuel bills maybe we can afford to pay our diplomats enough to rescue us from misuse of the atom.

Leaf-Clogged Gutter Causes Roof Leaks

WHEN A roof leaks, don't always blame the roofing material. Wornout roofing will cause a roof to leak, of course, but there are other reasons, too. One of these is that roof gutters are clogged.

A clogged gutter dams up the water drained from the roof, and when the gutter is full water can be forced back under the tabs of shingles along the eaves. Then the roof leaks even though the roofing material is in perfect condition.

Inspect Twice Yearly

To keep gutters free, they should be inspected and cleared at least twice a year. Wire mesh leaf guards will keep leaves from lodging in downspouts.

Proper roofing application is another safeguard. Recommendations for application of asphalt shingles, the most common roofing material for homes, call for an "eaves flashing strip" of asphalt roll roofing to be laid along the eaves before any shingles are applied.

This strip should be wide enough to extend at least 12 inches beyond the inside wall line and should never be narrower than 36 inches. It is expressly designed to catch water that backs up when gutters are clogged by leaves or ice.

Prepare Your House Now For Approaching Summer

THIS IS THE TIME of year when a home owner should put his house in shape for summertime living. He should make a thorough inspection, inside and outside, and repair any damage that may have occurred during the winter. At the same time, improvements which have been planned to increase the family's comfort, should be made.

Here is a list of points about the house on which an owner should check, recommended by the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Make sure there are no leaks in the roof, and check the flashing of chimney, window and door trim to insure water tightness. A visit to the attic, either on a bright, sunny day or on a rainy day, may help find the exact spot where a split or slipped shingle, or roof tile, or even a tiny hole, lets moisture get in.

Take down storm windows and store them for the summer. Inspect all window and door screens carefully. Repair any small holes, and if you didn't paint screens before storing them last fall do it now.

Examine outside steps and walks for loose boards or flagstones, which need repairing. Check trees near the house for limbs which are loose or should be pruned. Clean winter debris from all roof gutters and leaders, and repair or replace worn sections.

Inside the House

Carefully go over all windows, checking for cracked or broken panes, frayed sash cords or badly weathered sash. Thorough waxing of sash grooves with beeswax will help insure easy opening and closing of windows. Clean and re-

Moderate Selling Reverses Advance Of Stock Market

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—The stock market reversed itself today and declined under the weight of moderate selling in the final hour. The market had attained new record high marks in five of the previous six sessions, and today it opened higher.

Aircrafts were the main prop for prices. Strength in that division followed a vote by the Senate Appropriations Committee to boost Air Force funds 700 million dollars. Railroads, which were the mainstay of the market yesterday, backed down under profit-taking today.

The oils and some steels and radio-televisions were higher. Motors were slightly lower along with most airlines, chemicals, and utilities. Other divisions were mixed including the nonferrous metals and rubbers.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks was down 60 cents at $169.60. It was up $1.00 yesterday at a record high.

All three components of the average fell back today—industrials off 80 cents, rails off 70 cents, and utilities off 20 cents.

There were 465 gainers in the list and 494 losers out of the 1,204 individual issues traded. Eighty-eight issues hit new highs for the year and 16 touched new lows.

U. S. Treasurer Is 'Good Risk'

INDIANAPOLIS, June 14 (AP)—U. S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest handles billions but she was broke yesterday.

She discovered this as she was starting to board a plane after a speech-making tour.

Edith Roach of Indianapolis, a friend, decided the treasurer was a pretty good risk and cashed a $10 personal check for her.

Russia Hopes To Throw West Off Guard But Must Win Confidence In Agreements

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

At the very moment of accepting the Allied invitation to a Big Four conference at Geneva the Soviet Union has begun its campaign to make the United States appear responsible for failure to reach agreements there.

The Allies on their own part have been pointing out for some time that definite agreements are not expected at the top level meeting and that any accords which might develop through later negotiations at lower levels would be a long time coming.

The Tass statement accompanying the Russian announcement of acceptance, however, accuses the United States of deliberately trying to scuttle the negotiations.

The Russians are particularly worked up over the word from Secretary Dulles that the fate of Russia's satellites and the activities of international communism are bound up with East-West tensions.

In reply the Tass statement, issued to correspondents in Moscow simultaneously with the acceptance note, wants to know what Dulles would think about also discussing the activities of international capitalism.

That's the way Russia always reacts.

There are treaties in existence under which Russia promises not to act, through international communism, as she is acting in many nations today.

During the war, when Russia was fighting for her life, seeking Allied aid which ultimately totaled a fifth of her entire war potential, Stalin recognized international communism as something which might cut his water off. He abolished the Comintern—on paper.

That was only after years of Russian violation of the treaty by which she got American diplomatic recognition in 1932.

Russia now seems to recognize that, in order to produce the temporary lull she now seeks for reorganization of her forces in the cold war, and for attaining the industrial strength which she must have before she can think of hot war, she must win some sort of confidence in her agreements.

She has made some motions toward implementing some of them, such as the one on Austria, as Pravda points out.

Fundamentally, however, as everyone knows, peace with Russia must mean the end of international communism. As long as Moscow pretends there is no relationship, no a biding settlements are possible.

Buick for the price of a smaller car, so more and more people are getting this bigger buy for their money.

They want the bigger package of sheer automobile for the money that they get in Buick—bigger in power thrill, in roomy comfort, in riding steadiness, in structural solidity.

They want the added prestige and pleasure of owning Buick styling and size—and the added safety and sureness of Buick roadability and handling ease.

They want, too, the spectacular performance and better gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflo—yours at modest extra cost.

And they certainly want the choice Buick offers of a car in every price range, with each one the buy in its field—the low-price SPECIAL, the supremely-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.

Why don't you come in for a visit and see how much real automobile your money can buy here?

†Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

THIS is a Buick—a 2-door, 6-passenger SPECIAL Sedan.

It packs a walloping 188-hp V8 engine under the hood—is carried on a strapping 122-inch wheelbase—rides with the luxury cushioning of all-coil springing, the solid steadiness of a full-length torque-tube drive, the extra safety and silence of tubeless tires.

It's big and brawny and road-steady and roomy—each seat cushion measures over five feet in width.

Yet this beauty—as the price we show here proves—delivers locally for just about the price of the well-known smaller cars—even below some models of those same cars.

Ground Observer Corps Post In Operation At Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND—Local volunteers joined thousands of ground observers in the Civil Defense aircraft warning network across northern United States as the Newfoundland post went into action here for the first time Monday night.

Scanning the skies and reporting aircraft to the Pennsylvania filter center during the post's first six hours of operation were Charles E. Schaefer, post supervisor, and Rev. Frederick Fulmer, who along with Mrs. Harold Rohrbaker, is acting as chief observer.

The post is now operating on a 6 p. m. to midnight basis, Schaefer said. Eighty volunteers, working shifts of varying lengths, will man the post daily, gaining experience which will enable the post to go on a full-time schedule in case of an alert, he added.

Fill Radar Net Gaps

The local observation post is part of a chain of similar establishments, set up to fill in gaps in the Air Force radar net and to warn against low-flying planes which might fly under the electronic screen. It operates under the supervision of the Harrisburg Air Defense Center.

T/Sgt. Edward Hall, Air Force, stationed at Forest City, is the Harrisburg unit's representative in this area. Roy Pragnell, Honesdale, is post supervisor for Wayne County.

Although there is no manpower shortage under the present set-up, Schaefer urged that anyone interested in joining the post contact him for assignment. He may be reached at Newfoundland 8458.

Marx Starts Club To Raise Funds For Second Term

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Louis Marx, New York toy manufacturer and friend of President Eisenhower, said today he has started a "150 Club" fund raising drive to help win a second term for the President.

"The idea is to get down to the grass roots and to the young people," Marx said in a telephone interview from New York.

First, a committee member is appointed who donates $150. He gets 150 persons known as "organizing members" to put up $15 each as an "extra" contribution above what he would normally give to the campaign. Each organizing member gets 150 others to donate $1.50 each.

"The sole purpose is to nominate and elect President Eisenhower," Marx said.

If for some reason the President decides not to run, he added, the money will be returned to the donors.

The new tail twister is Charles Vogt Jr., and Steve Kosko, has been named lion tamer of the club. New directors are Bob Tompko and Marvin Williams.

British Rail Strike Ends; Dock Walkout Still In Force

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Britain's striking locomotive engineers and firemen ended their walkout tonight and hurried to get the engines rolling again on the crippled state-owned railways system.

Telegraphed orders flashed at once to railway centers to get traffic moving. Some of the 67,000 strikers were expected to climb into their engine cabs by midnight, with the prospect of near normal service by tomorrow evening.

The men called off their 17-day-old walkout just when it was beginning to bite deeply into Britain's industry. The walkout cost the railways an estimated $2,800,000 a day.

The strikers received a promise from the British Transport Commission to have an impartial referee hear their claims for higher pay differentials over less skilled railway workers.

Prime Minister Eden's newly-elected Conservative government thus weathered its first serious domestic crisis. It had proclaimed a national emergency at the height of the strike.

During the strike some factories were unable to move their goods and laid off workers. Fuel stocks had reached a dangerously low level. Britain's highway system was strained to the maximum to move as much goods as possible by truck.

A dock strike — stemming from a jurisdictional dispute between two unions — still partially tied up the ports of London, Hull, Liverpool, Garston, Manchester and Rochester.

You want purity in what you drink

Everything good to drink starts with water

The blending of flavors and water is an age-old custom.

The Mohammedans added rose water and sugar; the Persians of Darius, tangy citrus juice; the Romans, golden honey. But always, anywhere, the quality of the drink depended upon purity of water.

This still is true.

The water we use in Coca-Cola must be pure. More than that, it must be neutral to the taste in order to protect the delicate and distinguishing flavors of Coca-Cola Syrup.

Most of us think of water as being everywhere. In drinking form, however, it is becoming a world-wide problem. Erosion, increases in population, and the expansion of industry are contributing to a growing shortage of water and are creating varying standards of purity.

That's why we treat water in our Coca-Cola bottling plant with modern filtering processes. But that isn't all.

To produce Coca-Cola means much more than to "just add water." Each bottle is a blend of "good things from nine sunny climes," and each syrup ingredient, as well as all other materials, is tested for taste, strength and purity.

Have a Coke today . . . and you'll understand how time, precaution and a delicious taste make purity and pleasure a part of the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola.

Where else does purity mean so much?

YOU ARE INVITED . . . to visit our bottling plant. Why not arrange to drop in with the children and see for yourself why Coca-Cola comes to you pure as sunlight. Call Palmerton 2471

Civil Defense Distributes New Placards

MONROE COUNTY Civil Defense began distribution yesterday of a new luminous placard for the sign visors of workers' cars designed to identify all personnel activated for official duty.

Judge Fred W. Davis, director of Monroe County Civil Defense pointed out that these official placards are to be used only when workers have been called to active duty in the event of a national or state alert, in the case of natural disaster such as violent storms, floods, or catastrophes where civilian lives are in danger, or when workers are assigned to other official duty.

Judge Davis said these signs will help the general public realize that Civil Defense is an organization founded upon the ideal of service to civilians in time of need whether the cause be military or natural circumstances beyond ordinary control. The sign identifies a friend to all those in need. These placards will be much in evidence during the national and statewide alert today.

Report Of Frenchman Drafted Into U. S. Army Proves False

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A minor diplomatic ruckus developed today over a report that the son of a French member of parliament was drafted into the American Army despite his protests.

The French embassy said it just isn't true—contrary to what State Department and Selective Service officials told a Senate committee last Friday.

Furthermore, the French said they may send a formal letter complaining about the whole matter because it's the second year in a row that this story has made the rounds, unsupported by facts.

The State Department, after checking into the report over the weekend, acknowledged that perhaps the whole business was a mistake, based on "erroneous information."

Asst. Secretary of State Thurston B. Morton and Gen. Louis H. Renfro, Selective Service deputy director, started the hassle by telling the Senate Armed Services Committee the French government intends to draft Americans in France to retaliate because its citizens are being drafted in the United States.

The French embassy and State Department both agreed on one thing—it would be fine if Congress

Russia Taking Big Delegation To U.N. Party

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is taking the largest delegation to the U. N. birthday party in San Francisco.

He apparently intends to spread goodwill as far as possible, say veteran U. N. diplomats who have been mulling over the roster of more than 80 Russians who will back up Molotov at the U. N.'s 10th anniversary celebrations.

The U. S. delegation of 71 persons will be second largest. Molotov will arrive in New York tomorrow, bringing a party of 46 from Moscow, including experts on practically all areas of the world. He will join other Russians here and leave tomorrow night by train.

An advance party of Soviet delegates left last night for San Francisco to prepare for the main party. Molotov will stay in a luxurious home near San Francisco, complete with swimming pool. It is costing Moscow a reported two weeks' rent of $4,000, but is said to be a perfect place for entertaining.

Molotov was in San Francisco in 1945 for the founding conference of the U. N.

The ranking American will be President Eisenhower, who will open the conference Monday and then depart. Secretary of State

Honey contains a form of sugar, fructose, which promotes metabolism or burning-up of alcohol in the body.

It has a sobering up and sedative effect, corresponding to the effect of vitamin B6, and the combination of both honey and vitamin has proved helpful in treating alcoholics, Dr. Martha Brunner-Orne writes in the Journal of the American Medical Women's Assn.

SHS Class Of '45 Holds Its First Reunion

The class of 1945, Stroudsburg High School, held its first reunion on Saturday night, June 11, at Verry's Sunnyside, with 108 persons present. Peter Wyckoff, class president, served as master of ceremonies. Rev. William Dennis, a member of the class, gave the invocation.

Miss Lillian Stark, class advisor, was introduced and recalled many pleasant memories and humorous experiences with the class of 1945. She also reported on the many ways in which the class treasury fund left after graduation had been expended for the good of the school. The busts of Washington and of F. D. Roosevelt, now in the high school auditorium; a portion of the costs of the World War II monument in front of the school are two tangible reminders of the class.

The balance of the money fund was placed in a fund to purchase maroon and white graduation caps and gowns. These were worn for the first time this year on the tenth anniversary of the class of 1945, she reported.

James Marsh, class treasurer, was given a vote of thanks for his fund-raising ideas which made these gifts possible.

Wilmer Miller, vice president, awarded prizes to class members: to Helen Ainspach Warncke and Wayne Wanneke, both class members, of Huntington, West Virginia, a prize for traveling the longest distance; to Hazel Reish Fenner who married Elwood Fenner in the spring of 1945, a prize for being married the longest; to Albert Smith Jr., a prize for having the youngest child, a three-week-old daughter. A special mention award was presented to Joyce Westbrook who became the bride of Charlton Christman, the day after the reunion.

Anita Arnold Fisher, corresponding secretary, read the class history as presented at graduation time, bringing both laughter and tears of memory.

Among those not able to be present were Danna Doleiden Vough, class recording secretary; Miss Catherine Wolverson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonough, class advisor, and John Cartwright who served his last year as supervising principal of the Stroudsburg High School in 1945.

Door prizes were awarded to Lawrence Ashton, Delores Mengle Sox and Ruth Teeter Houser. Dancing to the music of the Blue Rhythms followed the program.

Pictures of children were compared by the parents, and many memories revived.

The committee in charge, in addition to Peter Wyckoff, included Patricia Gehris Dean, Anita Arnold Fisher, Mary Somers Scheller, Wilmer Miller and James Marsh.

Special entertainment has been planned for the reception to be held tonight at the YMCA by the Stroudsburg Little League Mothers in honor of the mothers of new players on the Stroudsburg teams.

Pirates Turn Big Frame Into 10-5 Verdict Over Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning tonight and went on to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-5, as Dale Long drove in four runs and Bob Purkey turned in a clutch relief job in the seventh.

Long, who has climbed up among the league's leading hitters, hit his fifth homer of the season with the bases empty in the second and then batted home three runs in the decisive fourth with a double and bases-loaded single.

Thirteen men went to the plate for the Pirates against starter Larry Jackson and Brooks Lawrence in the fourth as they collected six hits, three intentional walks and one hit batsman.

Ronnie Kline had been coasting along behind the Pirates' barrage until the seventh inning when the Cards loaded the bases with none out on singles by pinch-hitter Pete Whisenant and Solly Hemus and a hit batsman.

Then Purkey came on to fan Stan Musial and Bill Virdon and get Red Schoendienst on a hot grounder to second baseman Gene Freese to retire the side without a run scoring.

Wally Moon hit a pair of two-run homers for the Cards in the fifth and ninth innings.

Kline got credit for his fourth win against eight defeats while Jackson was charged with his fourth loss against two wins.

Mount Pocono scored in every inning to easily latch victory number five, as compared to two defeats.

Tobyhanna has won two of seven games played thus far this season.

The visiting Mount Pocono contingent finished on the long end of a 2-1 count in the first inning and then glided to victory by picking up one runner in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth, three in the fifth and one in the sixth and last round.

Tobyhanna scored one run in each of the last three innings, but the late spurt wasn't enough to change the complexion of the game.

EAST STROUDSBURG High's senior class, the one that came to the end of the scholastic education road last week, recently will be $140 to the Varsity "E" Club. The class also decided to split another $140 between the English Department and mechanical drawing division of the Industrial Arts Department. The seniors finished their high school careers with $280 in the treasury and after long discussion divided the spoils as mentioned above.

Harold Bush, so this reporter has been informed, was responsible for the idea of collecting money at last Saturday's East Stroudsburg Alumni Association for the "Cavalier Caravan." This fund is being raised to send the East Stroudsburg High School baseball team to see the Dodgers and Giants in action on Thursday, June 30. The Alumni group contributed a total of $50 to the drive. Time of departure and other details concerning the trip will be released in the near future.

Five of the wrestlers who will appear in the Varsity "E" Club's grant-and-groan program at Memorial Stadium Friday night will also appear in Scranton on Monday. This group includes the Red Demon, Fritz Von Wallick, Jim Stefano, Soldier Barry and Lou Abrams. All proceeds from Friday's show in East Stroudsburg will be used to defray at least part of the debt still existing on the new lighting system at Memorial Stadium.

Umpires in the East Stroudsburg Little League are to be congratulated for the manner in which they handled an unpleasant situation in Monday's game between East Stroudsburg National Bank and Cramer Lumber Co. Harry Warner, a resident of Reeders, is currently hitting at a .310 clip for Jacksonville, in the class "A" South Atlantic League. Harry recently slumped from .313 to .290, but quickly pulled the mark back to .310. Werner began his professional career with the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos.

Bob Fabel, area basketball official, plans to attend an officers training school in the Navy beginning sometime next month. A sprinkling system has been in use at Memorial Stadium through the recent dry spell and the grass has remained very green. The practice will be continued through the summer and the grass will be cut from time to time in the next couple of months. The manner in which score sheets have been handled by Little League and the Babe Ruth League in Monroe County is a credit to all officials. The situation is much improved over last season.

Today's postponement in the Monroe County Softball League is the first of the campaign in that circuit. The reason for postponing the contest until Friday is the fact that neither of the umpires assigned to the game can be present tonight. The league played 23 straight games before a postponement popped into view, but the circuit can still say that it hasn't lost a decision to the weatherman thus far this season.

Ronnie Esrang, who played basketball for the Lake Harmony entry in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League, is drawing down rave notices from sports writers in the Piedmont League for the manner in which he is covering second base for Lancaster. Ronnie is also making an impression with his "clutch" hits, although his batting average is currently down around the .270 mark. Esrang is seventh in runs scored in the league and second in the RBI department. Esrang was discharged from the Army last winter.

Charley Straup, well remembered performer in basketball and baseball for Lehigh Valley High School, was recently released by the Portsmouth club, of the class "B" Piedmont League. Jim "Buck" Radler, who played both baseball and basketball with Lake Harmony, has been dropped from the Yankee farm system. He's now holding down the regular shortstop berth with Hannibal, Missouri, in the class "D" Mississippi-Ohio Valley League. Jim is reportedly powdering the ball at a .250 clip.

Approximately 25 members of the Varsity "E" Club reported for work at Memorial Stadium Monday night. The club plans to finish construction of shower rooms at the stadium this summer. Work is being planned on a three-nights-a-week basis at the present time. The method of supporting the girders holding up the stands at Memorial Stadium will be changed so as to improve the shower room construction. The change has been authorized by architects and engineers, so this column has been informed.

Unbeaten Strouds To Entertain Roseto Foe Today

Arch Rivals To Clash At Giffels Field

ROSETO WILL attempt to end the six-game winning streak of the Strouds when the two arch rivals clash in a Bi-State League baseball game at Gordon Giffels Field today. The first pitch is scheduled to take place at 6:15 p. m.

The Strouds have rolled up six victories without a loss, while second place Roseto is currently featuring three favorable nods and one setback. The league leading Strouds inflicted Roseto's only setback earlier in the campaign.

In the first meeting of the two foes the Strouds were forced to come from behind to earn an 11-8 victory in 10 innings.

Manager Frank Radler last night announced that either he or Bill Sommers, young East Stroudsburg High graduate, would do the pitching for the home-standing Strouds. Sommers pitched the Strouds to a 6-3 verdict over Portland, also at Giffels Field, last Sunday.

Lineup
Harold Jacobson will be available if a relief pitcher is needed during the course of tonight's contest.

The remainder of the Strouds' lineup will feature John Whitehead as catcher; Danny Eppley, first base; Dick Gray, second base; Paul "Doc" Lin, shortstop; Ron "Super" Phillips, third base; Dave center field; Harold Freeman, center field; and Randy Morris, right field.

Jack Smith, former Penn Arty High star and a member of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College mound staff last season, is expected to toe the rubber for Roseto tonight.

One of the largest crowds of the present season is expected to be on hand to see the arch rivals in action tonight.

The Strouds held a special practice session last night.

Stanky Differs With Cards

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (AP)—The front office of the St. Louis Cardinals and Eddie Stanky, deposed manager of the club, disagreed today over Stanky's future assignment with the club, if any.

General Manager Dick Meyer of the Cardinals announced that he and Stanky, who was at his home in Fairhope, Ala., agreed a "complete agreement" on an scouting assignment for Stanky. But a later statement from Stanky indicated it was something less than complete.

Both Meyer and Stanky did agree that Stanky had been given permission to negotiate with any other major league club.

Meyer announced at the same time that Stanky had been given an assignment to scout players in the top minor leagues for the Cardinals.

Statement
Stanky, at his home, said he had turned down a scouting offer by the Cardinals, at least for the time being.

A Cardinal spokesman later conceded Stanky had rejected a suggestion by the club that Stanky serve as a scout in the Pacific Coast League.

Then Meyer offered Stanky an assignment of "giving us an appraisal of high minor league players," the spokesman said. "This presumably would include such leagues as the American Assn., the International League, the Texas League and the Southern Assn."

"If Stanky has turned that one down, it's news to us."

Stanky said he hasn't received any offers as yet from major league clubs. He did not say whether he planned to contact any clubs regarding a coaching or managing job.

Stanky was replaced as Cardinal manager May 28 by Harry "The Hat" Walker, the manager of the Cardinals' Rochester farm club and a former Cardinal outfielder.

Leo Denies 'Lazy' Report

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher today denied published reports he had said his New York Giants were playing "lazy" ball.

Durocher admitted he expressed chagrin over failure of pitcher Sal Maglie to cover first base in a losing game to the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

Reply
"But anybody who says I singled out any players with a charge of lazy ball is a liar," said Durocher just before the Giants whipped the Cubs 5-0.

Weitzel Captures State Open

HERSHEY, June 14 (AP)—Johnny Weitzel, pro of the host Hershey Golf Club, today won the 39th annual Pennsylvania Open golf championship in a tie-breaking round against defending champion Henry Williams Jr., Kutztown.

Playing a steady game built around good putting, Weitzel stroked to a two under par 71 in

Soldier Barry

Barry To Feature Winning Streak Of Sixty Bouts At Memorial Stadium Wrestling Show

SOLDIER BARRY, one of the outstanding professional wrestlers to take part in Friday's all-star mat show at Memorial Stadium, was an outstanding amateur grappler before turning to the professional division of the grunt-and-groan ranks.

Barry is regarded as a very clever grappler, having won many amateur tournaments before turning to the paying angle of the sport.

Early in his career Barry relied entirely on speed and his knowledge of the numerous legal holds. Though weighing only 220 pounds, he was able to defeat men twice his weight.

Barry received his nickname by winning the United States Army Wrestling Championship in Japan, when he was stationed in the Far East.

The former Army champ scored his first important series of victories in New England, when he captured 43 straight verdicts.

Barry will take a record of 60 straight victories into the Memorial Stadium ring with him on Friday night when he battles Fritz Ziegfried, the villain who features the Nazi salute. Barry has defeated some of the leading wrestlers in the United States.

The Barry-Ziegfried match is to be settled on a two-out-of-three-falls basis.

Another highlight of Friday's card will be the Australian Tag match, also billed as a two-out-of-three-falls affair. The Red Demon and Fritz Von Wallick, the former Nazi Storm Trooper, will oppose Ivan Kirlenko, who reportedly fled from behind the Iron Curtain, and Ernie Natale.

The former match on the program will send Bethlehem's Jim Stefano against Lew Abrams, the former professional boxer.

Tickets are currently on sale for the event being sponsored by the Varsity "E" Club. All profits from the affair will be used to partially pay the debt still existing on the new lighting system at Memorial Stadium.

Ringside seats are selling for two dollars, reserved seat tickets for $1.50 and general admission duets are priced at one dollar.

Tickets are now on sale at Lloyd's Sporting Goods Store, Stroud Manor, in Ananionk, and at the Hobby House. Tickets may also be purchased at WVPO during the day and at The Daily Record at night, or from any member of the Varsity "E" Club.

Laundrymen Take Measure Of IAM, 10-6

KEIPER'S LAUNDRY crammed 10 runs into five innings last night to score a 10-6 decision over IAM in a Monroe County Softball League game played at Stroudsburg Playground.

The ultimate winner jumped in to a 3-1 lead in the first inning.

and was never headed the remainder of the distance.

Keiper's club went on to add singletons in the second, third and fifth rounds and actually cemented the verdict with a four-run outburst in the fourth.

IAM rallied for three tallies in the seventh and final inning, but it wasn't enough to turn the tide of battle.

Bill Weber and Jim "Bunky" Smith divided the winning mound chores, while Charley Posten hurried for the losing contingent.

A game scheduled today between Coates Board and Paper Carton Co. and Al Beseker's Diner has been postponed until Friday, on the same field and at the same time. Lack of umpires for today's scheduled struggle is the reason for postponement.

Red Sox Use Power To Gain Verdict Over Kansas City, 12-4

BOSTON, June 14 (AP)—Rookie first baseman Norbert (Norm) Zauchin's three-run homer and Ted Williams' home run and two doubles ignited the Boston Red Sox 12-4 victory over Kansas City today.

Billy Klaus, the Sox' hustling shortstop, contributed four singles in his first four trips.

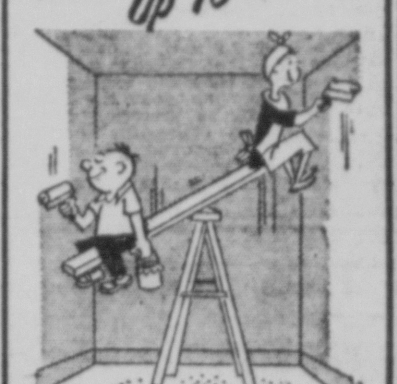

Williams kicked his batting average from .311 to .378 before he retired in favor of Gene Stephens after his seventh inning, bases-empty slam into the rightfield pavilion. He also walked and flied to left. His home run was his fifth in 12 games.

Winning pitcher Frank Sullivan weakened to yield two-run home runs to Vic Power in the fifth and Kansas City.

Giants Blank Cubs Behind Gomez, 5-0

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—Gait Harris' two-run homer and Willie May's No. 17 circuit smash backed Reuben Gomez' steady pitching to give the New York Giants a 5-0 victory over the second-place Chicago Cubs today. It was New York's first shutout triumph of the season.

Harris also drove in the third run with a sacrifice fly as the Giants moved to within 2½ games of the Bruins.

The fifth Giant run in the fifth inning came as Whitely Lockman and Don Mueller singled and Lockman scored on Hank Thompson's sacrifice fly.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
